

Amy C. Randazzo

Amy C. Randazzo is an associate attorney at Mathis, Marifian & Richter, Ltd. focusing her practice in estate planning and administration, business law, and transactional work. She obtained her J.D. from Saint Louis University School of Law in May of 2017, graduating cum laude with a concentration in entrepreneurship law. Amy also attended Saint Louis University during her time as an undergraduate, obtaining a B.A. in political science in 2010.

Once a college graduate, Amy found herself wanting to gain experience in the legal field prior to making the leap to law school. Amy joined Mathis, Marifian & Richter in 2010, working her way up from file clerk to legal assistant within a matter of months. After four years at MMR, Amy "retired" and began law school in the fall of 2014.

Amy's retirement was short-lived. She became a law clerk for MMR in January of 2015 and continued clerking at the firm throughout law school. Additionally, Amy worked as a Rule 13 certified student in SLU Law's Entrepreneurship and Community Development Clinic and in the Mediation Clinic.

Amy's background in the legal field and practical experience through the legal clinics have given her great experience in an array of legal matters including drafting estate planning documents, handling probate and trust administrations, forming new businesses and helping existing businesses review contracts, as well as assisting non-profit organizations in obtaining tax-exempt status.

In her spare time, Amy volunteers for Safe Connections, an organization working to end domestic violence. She enjoys spending time with family and friends, enjoying a good meal at local restaurants and finding time to read a good book.
